DC Access joins WISPA as a Principal Member

Washington, DC, February 14, 2007 – DC Access announced today that it has joined the Wireless Internet Service Providers Association (WISPA) as a principal member. WISPA is dedicated to promoting and improving the WISP industry by working with the FCC and other legislative bodies in the Internet industry. DC Access strives to be an active member of WISPA by participating in talks with the FCC and in the CALEA movement.

ABOUT DC ACCESS, LLC

Founded in 1999, DC Access is Washington's DC first and only wireless Internet service provider (WISP). The company also offers dial-up access and web hosting. DC Access' customers receive the benefits of high-speed broadband without having to order DSL or cable from a large provider. DC Access has earned a reputation for offering reliable, affordable and personal service to its customers. DC Access has been profitable from the first day of operation. The DC Access strategy has always been consistent and steady growth. DC Access is privately held and headquartered on Capitol Hill in Washington, DC.
